

Jürgen StolzMember of the Supervisory Board of Schaeffler AG

After completing his schooling, Jürgen Stolz began his career in 1980 with technical vocational training to become a vehicle mechanic, and afterwards a professional driver.

In 1988, Mr. Stolz transferred to LuK GmbH & Co. KG, where he started as a warehouse operative and later worked in a range of other departments such as Maintenance, Special Machinery, Goods Inwards, Development, and Prototype Construction, as well as most recently in Testing Facility Construction.

In 2002, Mr. Stolz was first elected to the Works Council in Bühl as an employee representative, and joined IG Metall in 2003.

From 2009 to 2010, he was one of the first employee representatives on the newly founded Schaeffler advisory committee. Since 2010, Mr. Stolz has been released from his other duties to act as a Works Council representative.

From 2014 to 2017, Mr. Stolz was Chairman of the Works Council in Bühl.

Since April 2018, Mr. Stolz has been released from his duties to act as a Works Council representative in Bühl, as well as a member of Schaeffler AG's European Works Council.